"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

MARK 13:31

Every word Jesus speaks in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, and only his words, in the King James Version. No narration, no commentary: just what he said, in the order the Gospels give it.

- All 40,275 of his words, verse by verse, checked against an independent red-letter edition
- A complete concordance of his vocabulary: 2,365 words, every place he says them
- His words for twelve situations, from worry and grief to doubt and forgiveness
- For each Gospel, a picture of where his voice falls, verse by verse

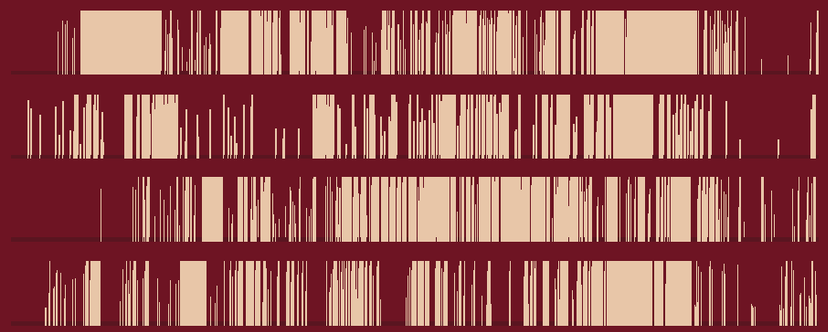

For reading straight through, for daily devotion, and for finding the place where he said it.
